GUIDELINES:

In most circumstances, completion of an advanced degree at UCR requires full-time study. However, the University of California recognizes the legitimate need for half-time study opportunities and is committed to providing those opportunities wherever possible. With the recommendation of your graduate program and the approval of the Dean of the Graduate Division, Half-Time Status may be granted under the following conditions:

1. The faculty in the student's degree program judge that Half-Time Status is academically feasible.
2. The student is making acceptable progress toward the degree.
3. The student cannot attend full-time for reasons of occupation (full-time employment outside of the University), family responsibilities, or poor health that prevent them from physically attending classes full-time.
 - Students are not approved for Half-Time Status simply because they do not want to enroll in more than one class, have only one class left to complete, or want a fee reduction.
4. The student is a citizen or permanent resident of the United States.
 - Federal regulations governing student visa status require full-time attendance for most international students.
5. The student is NOT employed on campus and does NOT hold a University fellowship (employment and fellowship regulations require full-time enrollment).
6. Students enroll in no more than eight units, including physical education classes, during the quarter for which they are approved for half-time status.
 - If this unit limit is exceeded, the student will not receive the half-time status fee refund for that quarter or for any subsequent quarter until another petition for half-time status is submitted and approved.
7. If in the PhD program, the student is NOT advanced to candidacy.
 - Under the Normative Time Policy, all PhD students advanced to candidacy are considered full-time and are not eligible for half-time status.
 - If the student is approved for Half-Time status and advances to candidacy during the same quarter, the student will be billed for full tuition for that quarter.
8. Students approved for Half-Time Status receive half off tuition, non-resident tuition (if applicable) and the professional fee (if applicable).
9. Students approved for Half-Time Status may no longer be eligible for deferment of student loan repayment obligations.
10. Half-Time students will accrue time toward the degree at one-half the rate of full-time students.
11. Half Time Status may be requested on a quarterly basis for the entire academic year.
12. Students must reapply each academic year.
